

ABSTRACT

A computing system includes a companion computing device having a display and a controller for transmitting a request to a host computing device; a host computing
5 device for providing a user interface element and language support to the companion computing device; and a communication link for providing a bi-directional communication channel between the companion computing device and the host computing device.